

Top features in your LMS

Compliance monitor

Courses can be set up in order to be completed by users, by a certain time frame. 'Due soon' and 'Overdue' automatic emails can be written by yourselves and sent out automatically by the LMS. You can also choose how often the user is reminded.

Face to Face/Classroom session booking tool

Create activities and populate the calendar so that users can book onto/register for face to face sessions that you might be running internally. Managers can create and run their own bespoke reports on their teams - and can also see global reports that administrators have created - with only their teams data displaying

Manual enrolment

The "Mandatory" section allows you to set courses within key sections to be marked as mandatory and automatically assigns all users on the platform to any courses visible to them in that section. In addition this enables "Negative Reporting" due to reports being generated for all enrolled users which displays their current status within the courses.

Personalisation

Administrators can change the branding, logos, login pages on the LMS.

Self enrolment

Learners can manually enrol themselves onto courses that they are interested in

Reporting

Reporting can be filtered by any additional profile fields that have been added in the hierarchy (e.g. department, region etc) for sources: individual SCORMS, quizzes, online badges, quizzes and more.

Users can see their own progress within a course card, by seeing which learning content is ticked, and which is yet to be ticked. They can also see the percentage of activities completed on the front of the course card (progress bar).

Course completions report will detail any data from the Compliance Monitor, including: Date enrolled, date started (whether it's in progress etc), not started or completed.

RoadMap Replay report will show when courses are due to be renewed by users

RoadMap Replay

Annual compliance tracking. The system tracks when compliance has been completed, and if required on an annual (or bi-annual) basis, the LMS will send out a reminder to let the user know their compliance is due again. Overdue course progress bars can be seen and managers and administrators can run reports to see who is compliant or not and when it's next due.
